

Layer Chicks - females

All these breeds are brown egg layers except Easter Eggers.

Chick arrive a few days old and MUST be kept under a heat light for several weeks depending on when you get them.

Ask us for more info on how to get started!

New Hampshire Red

NH Reds are derived from RI Reds but mature quicker. Slightly larger than RI Reds & we find them to be of better temperament. Good layer of large brown eggs. Adaptable to cold & home flock conditions.

Plymouth Barred Rocks

Super popular for backyard flocks because they are dependable layer of big eggs. These big girls are mellow and friendly. Developed in Massachusetts in the 1800s -so cold isnt an issue!

Cinnamon Queen

If you want great egg production these are your girls! Lays sooner than other breeds-smaller overall bird consumes less feed while producing large brown eggs. Excellent choice for backyard egg production.

Buff Orpington

Customer Favorite -big, round & gold! These large birds are know for easy going personalities and their egg laying ability - even in the cold winter months. From the UK

Light Brahma

Customer Favorite! This big bird is has feathering on its legs & feet for fun look. Great big bird that lays well -Very cold hearty. Tends to be friendly.

Rhode Island Reds

RI Reds have always been know a superior brown egg producers and were hugely popular thru the 1900s. They are hardy and thrive in many conditions.

Silver Laced Wynadotte

Sharp looking bird! The original wynadotte-good layer of large eggs, cold hardy and docile. Great foragers but also adapt to coops well. Nice birds!

Easter Eggers - Ameraucanas

Kid Favorite! The hatchery we buy from bred these girls to have a great variety of colors & patterns along with the trade mark face "muff" And they lay large size eggs with fun colored shells! So much fun to have in the flock!

Pick up a Chick Order Form in store or download from our website!

www.hansongrain.com

Black Sex-Link (Black Stars)

This birds are a cross of RI Reds & Barred Rocks - giving you the best of both breeds! Fabulous for free-ranging - tough birds that are prolific layers. Sex-link breeds mean the females & male are different colors -easy to tell the sex!

- *Our layer chicks are females -sexed at the hatchery with 90% success rate.
- *You can have a variety of breeds in your flock -no need to stick to just one breed! We recommend at least 2 per breed or one chick of many individual breeds so that there isn't an "odd man out, who would most likely get picked on.
- *Minimum order is 4 chicks. Breeds often sell out - so try to get your order in early.
- *Hens will begin to lay when they are about 18-20 weeks old. When hens are at peak production they will lay about 1 egg per day.

Speckled Sussex

Popular in England because is such a good layer & meat bird. Easy to handle, curious and friendly, great foragers. Develops more speckles with each molt.

Golden Laced Wynadotte

One of the most beautiful birds we sell! Good layer of large eggs, cold hardy and docile. Great addition to a home flock!

Black Australorp Welssummers

Large, docile black birds are great large brown egg layers. Tend to be friendly and calm. Cold weather hardy.

Pretty brown birds that lay dark colored egg often with spots. A hen will lay the same general egg pattern throughout life. Active birds -good free rangers.Limited Supply .

Hanson Grain

781-447-6621

Devine Feed&Pet

781-987-1565